

Global Summitry

Oxford University Global Summitry Podcast

Harry G. Broadman on "The Impact of the US-China Trade War on Global Leadership"

The rising tide of President Trump's trade warfare is not more central than in the U.S.-China relationship. With Harry G. Broadman we target the rising friction between these two economic giants. Is the Trump trade strategy – so focused on bilateral trade balances - likely to improve economic relations between the U.S. and China? Will it help prod China in fulfilling and adhering to its obligations under the World Trade Organization, to which it acceded in 2001? To dissect such questions and other matters coloring U.S.-China trade, we examine with Harry the evolution of China's 'socialist market economy' and the growing power of China's President Xi Jinping.

To Listen To The Podcast, Click On The Picture Below ➡

